Ragan on racing at Auto Club Speedway:

“California is a track where the Fords excel at and it’s one of the tracks Drew and I got to work together at last year which just adds to our confidence level going into this weekend. Last year we ran a newer-style car like we are taking this time so we’ve got good notes to go off of. It’s a track that you can really pass and move around a lot since there isn’t one set groove. Finding where the car is the best is always a challenge at California and makes for a fun race.”

Crew chief Drew Blickensderfer on racing at Auto Club Speedway:

“California is a race track that wears out tires, so a good handling chassis is important. It’s also one of the bigger tracks we go to so our motor is also very important. All aspects of our team need to be working in order to get a good finish. We were running well last year until an accident right at the end, but we are taking a brand new UPS Ford this weekend and are looking to get back to the front where we belong.”

FAST FACTS

- On his way out to Auto Club Speedway on Thursday, March 24th, Ragan will make a stop in Los Angeles to visit with the children at the Shriners Hospitals for Children®. Ragan will take a tour and spend the afternoon participating in a racing-themed day with the children and their families.
- In his eight starts at Auto Club Speedway Ragan has completed 1,942 of 1,950 laps for a total of 99.6 percent laps completed.
- Road Code, UPS’s teen safe driving program, will be represented on the C-Post of the UPS Ford this weekend. The program is run in partnership with the Boys and Girls Clubs of America to teach defensive driving methods to teens across the country. Road Code currently is offered through the BGCA of Los Angeles. For more information, visit: www.ups.com/roadcode.
